

authors of note...

As a way to develop literacy through authorship, allowing children to describe, question and celebrate their own experiences and personal creativity.

Every fortnight, the P&C display box (near the tuckshop) will be stocked with samples of student writing from a variety of classes (one contribution per class). Mr Raffelt will identify one author as 'author of note'. This is not a competition and the author of note will be identified as crafting a piece of writing with a noteworthy feature such as:

- interesting character description
- clever rhyming words
- unexpected ending
- excellent use of direct speech
- great description, ingenious choice of topic
- accurate organisation of events

The author of note will read their piece of writing at the school assembly. They will also have their writing published in the school newsletter. All contributions will be saved on this site for two weeks after display.
